

AP Lit Summer Homework

email talopez@egusd.net if questions arise.

First Part

Due August 18/19

Sticky note annotations throughout the novel

Read and annotate Things Fall Apart. You may annotate for whatever you want as long as your annotations seem meaningful and useful, not random. If you're unsure of what to annotate for, I would suggest personal reactions you have to the characters and events, the central conflict, any patterns you see in the novel, the turning point of the novel, any themes that arise as you read, parts that you find particularly confusing, etc.

Second Part

Due August 18/19

"5 Questions for Things Fall Apart"

After taking some time to think about the complexities of the novel, develop five questions the novel raises that you would be interested in exploring an answer to.

Third Part

Due August 10/11

Typed copy in MLA format

In a speech, I would like you to tell me and your peers about yourself. Your speech should contain between two and a half minutes and three minutes worth of material when you deliver it. I've listed some questions you might have regarding this assignment.

5 Questions for Things Fall Apart

Question 1:

Question 2:

Question 3:

Question 4:

Question 5: